The American College of Radiology (ACR) has added International Medical Solutions' (IMS) educational package to its array of medical imaging education offerings.

The IMS Educational Toolkit allows users of ACR's Cortex radiology learning platform to perform DICOM viewing and access interactive, web-based assessments. It can be used for resident training, continuing medical education, and other ACR educational initiatives, and because it is cloud-based, it does not require software downloads, special apps, or server-side rendering, IMS said.
